

Community Agencies Pledge Assistance To Area Camps

Plans Reviewed For Possible Emergencies

SUMMER camps operating in the Pocono Mountains have been assured the cooperation and assistance of community agencies in the event of a disaster during the camping season.

Representatives from 25 camps, meeting Saturday night at the YMCA in Stroudsburg, heard from spokesmen for the Red Cross, Civil Defense, State Police, Radio Station WVPO and The Daily Record.

All pledged their assistance wherever and whenever needed in coping with emergencies, both large and small, which affect the camps.

At an afternoon session, the camp directors moved to set up their own system for cooperating among themselves in case of a flood, severe storm, accident, fire or explosion. They agreed to conduct a survey among the camps in this area to determine what each has available in the way of manpower, supplies, transportation, communication facilities and the like.

Basics

The material will be compiled on a township or a regional basis by Louis Sherr, of Camp Akiba, who is preparing a questionnaire to be sent to the camp directors. The compilation will then be distributed to the various camps as a guide when needed.

N. Harold West, director of the Philadelphia - Valley Forge Boy Scout Reservation at Resica Falls, presided at the meetings. Tom Cairns, of Camp Wyomissing, president of the Eastern Pennsylvania Division, American Campers Association, led a discussion on matters of common interest.

The campers dwell at length on a summary of past experiences in disasters and a need for cooperation on such matters as communication, health, transportation, manpower, public relations and information.

Health matters were discussed with George M. Livingstone, of Wilkes-Barre, regional sanitary engineer, and Jonas T. May, county sanitarian.

It was brought out that 57 summer camps are located in 11 townships of Monroe County. Only 47 are now active. They have an enrollment of 12,000 persons.

Jack Anderson, eastern area director for Civil Defense, was the first speaker. He emphasized that the first line of contact for a camp to make in case of disaster is the CD director in the township where the camp is located. In this connection, he requested each camp director to contact his CD leader immediately so that he will know what will be required of the agency in time of extreme need.

Warnings

Anderson also said that warnings of impending disaster will come through C. D. and the Red Cross. He said the state warning system had been revamped and improved since last summer's flood, and told of a projected system of contacting camps and resorts by helicopter in case telephone service is disrupted.

Judge Fred W. Davis, county C. D. director, and Paul Crawn, county coordinator, also spoke briefly.

The Red Cross was represented by Charles R. Bensinger Jr., chapter chairman; Mrs. Ida M. Kunkle, secretary; Miss Sarah Dietrich, national representative; J. L. Cohen, disaster chairman, and LeRoy Mikels, blood chairman.

Miss Dietrich described the types of disaster relief furnished by the Red Cross and how it is distributed. Cohen said Red Cross aid may be extended to campers in an emergency and said the chapter was ready to provide the relief when needed. Mikels pointed out that blood is available at Monroe County General Hospital to out-of-county residents and invited camp staffers to volunteer blood when the bloodmobile visits the county July 13 and again in August.

Bensinger pledged the camps whatever assistance the Red Cross office is able to offer when the need arises.

A similar promise of help came from Trooper Emil Weber, representing the State Police. He said all police cars and the three substations in the county are equipped with radio sending and receiving sets which could be brought (Please turn to page three)

Koehler Named President Of ESSTC

Tito Receives Royal Welcome In Romania

BUCHAREST, Romania, June 24 (AP)—Touring President Tito of Yugoslavia, beaming triumphantly on his arrival from Moscow, was welcomed by Romania's Communist leaders today as a "dear and beloved comrade."

Tito responded with an offer to let bygone be bygones and remain on good neighbor terms in the future on the basis of the agreements he signed in Moscow with the Kremlin's leaders.

Romania's Red leadership turned out 250,000 people in this city of about 1½ million to welcome Tito and cheer him as he was driven through the city in a Russian car.

Motorcade

The motorcade went down the same street which four years ago was plastered with posters depicting Tito as a hangman and a bloody-handed tool of the Americans. Bucharest was the headquarters of the Cominform—the group of Soviet-led Communist states which booted Tito out in 1948. It no longer exists.

Tito is here for three days of talks in which he is expected to put before Romania's leaders the new rules for cooperation of Communist parties as decided upon by Tito and the Kremlin.

Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej, chief of the Romanian Communist party was the first to greet Tito. Premier Chivu Stoica accompanied Tito as they reviewed a helmeted Romanian honor guard.

Stoica referred to the ousting of Yugoslavia from the Cominform as "that unhappy break of contact between us." He said the patching up of differences—a step decided upon by the present Kremlin leadership—opens up "prospects for collaboration in all fields." Stoica added:

"We are convinced that our talks with the Yugoslavs, which will be conducted on principles of mutual respect and contributions to peace, will have great importance."

"The government of Romania and its people welcome you, dear and beloved comrade Tito. May the unbreakable friendship of the Romanian and Yugoslav people live forever."

Floor Leader 'Disappointed'

HARRISBURG, June 24 (AP)—Rep. Charles C. Smith, House Republican floor leader, says he is "very much disappointed" with the building program submitted to the General State Authority by the Welfare Department.

And Smith said he would insist that the GSA "spread every dollar possible" for the cure instead of the custodial care of mentally ill.

Twining Reveals Stand Of U.S. On Disarmament During Speech To Soviet Leaders

MOSCOW, June 24 (AP)—Gen. Nathan S. Twining told the leaders of the Soviet Union tonight the Americans are a peaceful people but the United States will not disarm "until we are sure of worldwide arms control."

The U. S. Air Force chief of staff made the statement in a polite but forthright speech at a Soviet Defense Ministry party celebrating Soviet Air Force Day at which the Russians showed off seven new Soviet fighter planes and a new jet-propelled type transport.

The fighters represented three new types of aircraft—two of them probably supersonic. Twining said he was "quite impressed" with the show at Tushino Airport.

Interest

"Peace and disarmament are not my business but nobody is more interested in peace and disarmament than the man who wears this suit," Twining said, pointing to his beribboned summer Air Force uniform.

Beside him as he spoke was Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, Soviet minister of defense. Premier Bulganin and Soviet party boss Nikita Khrushchev were directly across the table.

"We know what war means and my country has proved through the years we are a peaceful people," Twining said. "We always got into wars very late."

"After the last war we disarmed completely. That, gentlemen, is disarmament," Twining said in pointed answer to speeches and toasts to peace and disarmament, which Soviet leaders had been proposing for four hours.

"We had to build up our forces again at Korea," Twining went on, "and we are not going to reduce them again until we are sure of worldwide arms control."

U. S. British and French diplomats and air force delegation heads, seated around the crowded table in the garden of the Soviet Army Club, applauded.

Welcome

Zhukov read a speech of welcome in which he called on the big powers to "free humanity from fear of the future" by reducing armed forces.

Earlier, at the air show, Twining told newsmen the equipment displayed "was very interesting. I certainly hope I get a chance to look at it in more detail."

He and other members of the visiting American party begin a tour of Soviet air facilities tomorrow.

Soviet pilots gave about 200,000 spectators as close a look as possible as they flew big bombers and fast fighters across the airfield—in some cases less than 300 feet above the crowd.

Dedication Of Prison

HARRISBURG, June 24 (AP)—Dauphin County's new $1,800,000 prison along U. S. 422 a few miles west of Harrisburg was formally dedicated yesterday.

Senate May Decide Air Budget Fate

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—A Senate decision on the politically charged question of boosting the Air Force budget may come tomorrow, if members hold off on political speckling.

It seemed apparent, however, that some senators would find it difficult to resist expanding on the Air Force controversy, even though it eased a bit yesterday after Secretary of Defense Wilson said he had not meant to say Senate maneuvering to raise the Air Force budget was "phony."

The Senate Appropriations Committee has voted to give the Air Force $1,160,000,000 more than Wilson asked. An alternative proposal, by Sen. Bridges (R-NH), would provide half a billion dollars extra.

Contention

Wilson contends that the administration's original request for some $15,600,000,000 for the Air Force is entirely adequate.

Sen. Chavez (D-NM), floor manager for the 35-billion-dollar defense money bill, says he expects the Senate to approve the larger amount by six to ten votes.

The fund fight centers on the Air Force. There is no indication efforts will be made to change the budget allotments for the Army or Navy.

Wilson told newsmen his use of the word "phony" at a Thursday news conference was not meant to apply to what was going on in the Senate.

Bridges, top Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee, had said Wilson was guilty of "an unwarranted slur" on the Senate.

Wilson said, "I did not intend it that way."

Chavez expressed a belief that the controversy over Wilson's remarks would be forgotten by tomorrow. Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) said:

"My feeling is that the senators will do what they think ought to be done regardless of what Mr. Wilson said."

Harrisman told a news conference he is setting up a cocktail party Tuesday afternoon. He conceded smilingly that politics will be discussed along with any other matters of mutual interest.

Politics is the big item of interest at this 48th annual session of the nation's governors, although it isn't on the official agenda.

Last Stitches Removed From Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—A jubilant President Eisenhower's morale soared "extremely high" today as doctors removed his last remaining surgery stitches and he declared: "I feel a lot better already."

These reports were announced by his press aide on the 16th day after the President's abdominal operation.

Looking forward to discharge from Walter Reed Army Hospital by the week's end, the President felt so good about removal of the wire sutures he walked 80 feet down the corridor to Mrs. Eisenhower's room to give her the good news.

The First Lady, surprised by the visit, laughed "delightfully" over her husband's exuberance.

Message

Eisenhower's jubilation bubbled over, too, in a message he asked press secretary James C. Hagerty to relay to newsmen in the Walter Reed press room.

"Tell the White House correspondents," the President instructed Hagerty, "that I haven't got a wire left in my body. They have taken them all out and I feel a lot better already."

And on that note, Eisenhower held an hour-long business conference with his chief White House aide, Sherman Adams.

The deep "through and through" wire sutures were cut by the doctors yesterday to ease the tension and make removal easier on the President. Superficial skin stitches were removed several days ago.

Eisenhower's physicians announced yesterday that he would be able to leave the hospital "in about a week" if his recovery progress continues as it has been going. Talk around Walter Reed is that he may be discharged Friday or Saturday.

This morning's medical bulletin at 10:50 a.m. was in the same optimistic vein as every other one issued since his operation. The bulletin said:

"The President had a most comfortable night. He slept almost continuously for about eight hours."

Normal

"His temperature is 98, pulse 76, blood pressure 120 over 70 and respiration 20—all of which are normal."

"He is holding his previously announced weight—162 pounds."

"This morning the retention wire sutures were removed. Shortly thereafter the President walked down the corridor from his room to Mrs. Eisenhower's suite, a distance of 80 feet."

"His condition continues to progress very satisfactorily. His morale is extremely high."

Harrisman 'Fishing' For Support

ATLANTIC CITY, June 24 (AP)—Gov. Averell Harrisman of New York disclosed today he is fishing openly among governors attending their annual conference for support for his own candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Harrisman told a news conference he is setting up a cocktail party Tuesday afternoon. He conceded smilingly that politics will be discussed along with any other matters of mutual interest.

Politics is the big item of interest at this 48th annual session of the nation's governors, although it isn't on the official agenda.

Busy

Associates of Adlai E. Stevenson also are busy on the conference scene keeping up the political contacts of the former Illinois chief executive.

Harrisman and two other Democratic governors, Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey and G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, called today for the type of civil rights platform that could bring on a party-splitting scrap at the Democratic National Convention starting in Chicago Aug. 13.

All three urged that the civil rights plank specifically endorse the Supreme Court decision outlawing racial segregation in public schools.

Elected President
HARRISBURG, June 24 (AP)—John J. Gardner, Philadelphia, was elected president of the Pennsylvania Society of Public Accountants at the group's ninth annual meeting here.

Tannersville Family 'Good'

ORANBURG, S. C., June 24 (AP)—A Tannersville, Pa., family of six was reported in good condition today at Orangeburg Regional Hospital where they have been confined since an automobile accident last Thursday in which a woman was killed.

The woman was Mrs. Julia Rhoden, 71, whose car collided with the car occupied by Archer L. Law, about 40, and his wife and four children.

Police said Mrs. Rhoden's car attempted a left turn in front of Law's just outside the city limits and the vehicles collided. Mrs. Rhoden died of a fractured skull and internal injuries. Law suffered a back injury. His wife, Laura May, 38, suffered a broken arm. Their daughters, Sara Jane, 15, and Margaret and Marian, 12-year-old twins, and their son, Donald, 8, escaped with minor injuries.

Congress Faces Full Week Of Hot Election Year Issues

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—Issues likely to figure large in the coming election year campaigns provide Congress with a politically hot week ahead.

The week's schedule, certain to touch off fireworks on both sides of the Capitol, includes action on proposals for billions more in veterans pensions, federal aid for school construction, foreign aid and defense appropriations. Civil rights legislation is another issue.

Congressional agreement is due to be reached on a vast new superhighway program calling for 41,000 miles of interstate highways and $14,800,000,000 of new motorway and trucking taxes.

Compromise

Both Senate and House are expected to give a final okay to a compromise road bill by Wednesday and send it to the President's desk before the weekend.

Heading for a House floor battle Tuesday, with the outcome uncertain, is a bill to boost veterans payments an estimated 1½ billion dollars the first year and a total of 18 billions over the next 44 years.

Arranged against this program voted by the House Veterans Committee is Committee Chairman Teague (D-Texas). Speaker Rayburn and the Eisenhower Administration. Teague will push for a lower-cost substitute limiting benefit increases to 200 million dollars the first year.

Following the veterans bill to the House floor will be the federal school construction bill.

It seems certain to touch off a bitter fight over expected efforts to include an anti-segregation amendment which would deny federal funds to states refusing racial integration of their schools.

Bottled up in the Rules Committee since the start of the session, the school bill calls for federal payment of $1,600,000,000 to the states for new schools at the rate of $400,000,000 a year for four years. It also authorizes 750 million dollars for purchase of local school bonds.

This figure, the statement said, "does not include increases in wages and benefits for more than 100,000 employees of the steel industry who are not covered by contracts between the (Big Three) companies and the United Steelworkers."

The statement said the proposal would increase wages and benefits for the Big Three's 550,000 workers by an average of $350 the first year, and would go up to an average of $1,300 a year per employee in the fifth year of the contract.

The statement concluded: "In addition to the above increases, the wages of steelworkers would be increased to compensate for any increase in the cost of living as measured by the consumer price index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics...In no event, would the wages of steelworkers go below those set forth in the contract offered by the companies."

Issue
McDonald also said the industry's demand for a five-year no-strike contract was "the most flagrant provocation on the part of the industry toward disruption of relations" and meant union members would have to "gamble their future."

The Big Three statement did not go into this phase of McDonald's attack.

It said the industry wage offer, including welfare and other benefits, $2,300,000,000 in increments, would cost the three leading steel producers more than $1 billion in increased labor costs in five years.

The statement said the proposal would increase wages and benefits for the Big Three's 550,000 workers by an average of $350 the first year, and would go up to an average of $1,300 a year per employee in the fifth year of the contract.

The statement concluded: "In addition to the above increases, the wages of steelworkers would be increased to compensate for any increase in the cost of living as measured by the consumer price index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics...In no event, would the wages of steelworkers go below those set forth in the contract offered by the companies."

Sentencing Postponed
NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—General Sessions Judge Mitchell D. Schweitzer today postponed until next Tuesday the sentencing of Thomas G. Daniel convicted of first degree manslaughter on the abortion death of a young Lebanon, fabrics designer.

Adm. King On Critical List
PORTSMOUTH, N. H., June 24 (AP)—Adm. Ernest J. King, wartime chief of naval operations, suffered a heart illness today at Portsmouth Naval Hospital and his name was placed on the critical list.

His son, Lt. Cmdr. Ernest J. King Jr., who flew up from Washington to be with his father after the admiral was stricken at 3:30 a.m., told newsmen:

Failure
"It's not a heart attack but heart failure brought on by high blood pressure."

The son said his father was "considerably improved" this afternoon though still on the critical list.

He said the admiral, who has not been in good health for some time, was "on oxygen and taking digitalis intravenously."

Adm. King, 77, resides during the winter at the Navy Medical Center at Bethesda, Md., and spends the summer at the naval hospital here.

He was stricken in his room at the hospital.

Action Must Be Approved By State

DR. LEROY J. KOEHLER has been named president of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College by the board of trustees.

His appointment still must be confirmed by the State Department of Public Instruction and the office of Gov. George M. Leader.

Dr. Koehler's nomination for the post was approved Saturday at a special meeting of the trustees. All seven members of the board were in attendance. The vote to nominate and appoint Koehler was nearly unanimous—six trustees voted for it, one opposed.

Leroy J. Koehler

Dr. Floyd W. Shafer, president, was in charge of the meeting. Other trustees attending were: Mrs. Harold Edwards, Clyde Shaffer, Frank S. LaBar and Rev. John Bergstresser, all of Monroe County; Robert Harrier, Pen Argil, and Patrick J. Connors, Old Forge.

Three applicants were interviewed. In addition to Koehler applications were made by Prof. Fred G. Armstrong, Lehigh University and Dr. Frank Maguire, head of the Bureau of Employment Security in this area.

After interviews with the three applicants, Harrier moved that Koehler be recommended unanimously by vote of the trustees. On this vote—the final one taken—Connors was the only trustee recorded as opposed to the nomination.

Dr. Koehler has been associated with the local college the past 34 years. He has been head of the Social Studies department since 1936.

Koehler was born in Gilbert, son of the late Frank and Ida Mae Koehler. His father was, for 18 years, Monroe County superintendent of schools.

Koehler was graduated from Stroudsburg High School in 1916. He began teaching at Polytechnic Institute in Gilbert one day after his graduation from high school. He was acting principal there in 1919.

Shortly thereafter he enrolled at Pennsylvania State University (then a college). At the end of his sophomore year he entered the U. S. Army. He served one year, then returned to college. He received his A. B. degree from Penn State in 1921.

Teacher

In the Summer of 1921 he taught one session at State Teachers College, then still a normal school. He then went to Norristown High School where he taught for one year. In the Fall of 1922 he returned to the local college.

He has earned a wide reputation as a local historian. The author of an accepted definitive text on "The History of Monroe County During the Civil War" he has also written numerous other unpublished articles on the local scene.

He is a member of the Academy of Political and Social Sciences and an honorary member of Phi Gamma Mu, a social studies fraternity and of Kappa Delta Pi, education society. For some time he was school editor of "Pennsylvania History."

On the local scene he is now a member of the board of directors of Monroe County Library and treasurer of Children's Aid Society of Monroe County. Dr. Koehler is presently serving as historian of the Monroe County Historical Society and has been president of that group.

During past years he has been president of Kiwanis Club of Stroudsburg. He has served on the directorial board of the Monroe County Community Chest and Council. For many years he was a member of the vestry of Christ Episcopal Church in Stroudsburg.

In 1924 he married the former Kathryn Elizabeth Barnes. The couple has one son, Lee Barnes Koehler, now married and serving in the security division of the Army at Fort Bragg, N.C.

Truman, Churchill Drink Silent Toast To Roosevelt As Former Officials Review History

WESTERHAM, England, June 24 (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill and tourist Harry S. Truman had a reunion today in the peaceful quiet of the English countryside.

The scene of their meeting—the first since Truman left the White House—was at Chartwell, the spacious country home of Britain's wartime leader.

Churchill, who had invited Truman and his wife to lunch, met the former American President at the wide Tudor door of his home located about 40 miles from London.

"How are you?" asked Truman as he grasped Sir Winston's hand. "Well, I'm getting on," said Churchill, who will be 82 in November.

"You don't look a day older than Poldam," said Truman. "Oh, yes," replied Churchill, "I'm getting on."

Churchill then told Truman how well he looked. Truman is 72, a photographer asked them to stand together. They beamed at one another and Truman said:

"This is just like old times." "There was a faraway look in Churchill's eyes, and a member of his family said there were tears there too."

Churchill invited Truman into his home, which is decorated with many pictures which the former Prime Minister had painted. A butler brought up a tray of drinks.

Standing before a bronze bust of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt they both drank what appeared to be a silent toast to the man whose death sent Truman to the White House in 1945.

In addition to Mrs. Truman and Lady Churchill the guests included Christopher Soames and his wife, Mary, who is Churchill's daughter; another daughter, Sarah, and Lord Beaverbrook.

After luncheon, Sir Winston and Truman, both swinging walking sticks, strolled into the gardens of Chartwell. For an hour they sat beneath a tree conversing animatedly.

Back at his hotel later, Truman said of Churchill: "He's as keen as a briar."

Four People Injured In Auto Accident On Route 209

FOUR PERSONS were injured over the weekend in a two-car collision on Route 209, four miles west of Stroudsburg. Total damage was estimated at some $1,700.

Robert E. MacIntyre, 55, of Camp Hill, suffered brush burns, while a passenger in his car, Patricia A. Baisley, 22, of Harrisburg, received lacerations of the head and face.

The second motorist, James L. Meyers, 18, of 43 N. 10th St., Stroudsburg, suffered a possible fracture of the right knee. A passenger in his auto, Thomas Carson, 20, of Stroudsburg RD1, received bruises of the body and brush burns.

Treated All four were treated at General Hospital, and later discharged. MacIntyre was traveling west on Route 209 at 9 p.m., Saturday, when he decided to turn back toward Stroudsburg, State Police said.

While negotiating the turn, his auto was struck broadside by that of Meyers, which was also going west, troopers added. State Police pegged damage to MacIntyre's vehicle at $1,200, and estimated damage to Meyers' car at $500.

Excursions Periodically, the trainees will make field excursions for on-the-ground observations of wildlife preservation and development projects at work. They will also participate in activities that are part of the state's wildlife program. The class will be assigned, as deputies, to law enforcement duties just prior to and during the small and large game seasons.

The school teaches land management for game, law enforcement, public relations, biology and research, tree and shrub identification, game propagation, first aid, marksmanship, office administration.

Outgoing Grand Knight Truman Burnett commended the council members for the work accomplished during the first council year.

Membership Goal He also announced that work was received from Supreme Council Headquarters that the order has surpassed the one million member mark as a result of the recent "million membership" drive in which the local council participated.

After the regular meeting George LeBar, who is co-chairman of the Helpers Division of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, announced that his group is preparing to open a Catholic information center and library in a ground floor room of the Indian Queen Hotel and that they are in need of tables, desks, chairs and lamps suitable for use in such a room. Anyone who has any such items to donate can contact Mr. LeBar by calling 4750.

The council's executive board will meet July 2.

Strike Benefits Being Paid Ronson Workers

STRIKE BENEFITS are being paid to members of Lodge 1724, International Association of Machinists, who walked off the job at the three East Stroudsburg plants of the Ronson Corp. on June 12. Lodge business representative Emerson F. Stanton said last night that other lodges within District 128 of Northeastern Pennsylvania are making contributions to the relief fund. Other assistance is coming from the Grand Lodge.

Negotiation Stanton also disclosed that another negotiation session is scheduled for 3 p.m. today at the Penn-Stroud Hotel. Moreover, another membership meeting of Lodge 1724 has been slated for 8 a.m. Wednesday at the American Legion Home in East Stroudsburg.

The union is seeking more adequate job protection within the structure of the seniority clause, in addition to a "substantial" increase in rates.

Company G Raises Strength To 158 With Two Recruits

Remains Number One In Division

COMPANY G gained two new recruits and maintained its record as the strongest company of any kind in the 28th Division Saturday.

It was recruitment day throughout the State for the division. The two recruits brought Monroe County's National Guard organization to a new strength of 158 men, counting both enlisted men and officers.

Purpose

Main purpose of the one-day drive, however, was to create and increase public knowledge of the National Guard and to acquaint the public with the local company.

In this area, company officers said that Saturday was a sizeable success. The company's telephone—Stroudsburg 1276—rang dozens of times during the day. Nearly all of the calls were seeking more information on enlistment in the company, a spokesman said.

It Was Supposed To—But East Stroudsburg's Pool Failed To Open Because Of Muddy Water

NEVER COUNT your chickens until your swimming pool is full. Twisted though the moral may be, the old saw has a new subscriber today—several of them, maybe.

Daughter of the late Peter S. and Amanda Edinger, she was born in Bartonville. She moved to Stroudsburg with her family from Stroud Township 51 years ago.

She was a member of Stroudsburg Methodist Church; the F. P. Flory Bible Class and the WSCS of that church. For many years she was an active member of the Wesley Chapel. She was also a member of the Monroe County WCTU. Survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Arthur L. Stackhouse and a son, Dr. Paul H. Shiffer, both of Stroudsburg; nieces and nephews. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Dunkelberger and Westbrook funeral home.

Six Injured In Rock Fall

LEHIGH GAP, June 24 — Six men working on the new T. J. Evans Tunnel about a mile and a half west of this Carbon County community were injured, one critically, when a fall of rock touched off a dynamite explosion shortly after midnight Saturday.

The victims were identified at Palmerton Hospital as: Anthony Matalavage, Walter S. Sajda, and John Waizicki, all of Shenandoah; Edward Bassinsky, Pottsville; Glenn Kennedy, Jim Thorpe, and John Levasch, Hazleton. Waizicki was reported on the critical list by a hospital spokesman.

Ronson Official Joins Group

HARRISBURG, June 24—Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce announced here today the names of 330 business leaders and consultants who will serve on its 11-study committees during 1956-57. The list includes one from Stroudsburg.

Committees meet periodically, usually at the State Chamber Building in Harrisburg, to draw up recommendations to be acted upon by the organization's 51-member board of directors. The Chamber has a statewide membership of over 4,000 executives of business and industrial firms, local chambers of commerce and trade associations.

New committee appointments were made by State Chamber President W. F. Rockwell, of Pittsburgh. Local appointees, and the committees on which they will serve, include:

Barry Feiden, Ronson Corporation of Pennsylvania, Stroudsburg; Industrial Relations Committee.

Playground director Lew Hasle was so confident he came right out and said so.

Things went along fine. But Saturday the vents started pouring through muddy water. That was early in the morning.

So the muddy water had to settle to the bottom. And today the pool will have to be cleaned. Nobody's making any predictions right now when the opening will be. Barring more bad luck, maybe tomorrow.

The East Stroudsburg playground and the pool suffered extensive damage last August in the flood. Everything else on the grounds is "ready to go" for the Summer. But damage to the pool's fence and other facilities has been harder to repair and get back in working condition, playground officials said.

Electricity

In the film, Dr. Irwin Moon, director of MIS, allows a million volts of electricity to sizzle through his body and out his fingertips making long streaks of high-voltage lightning. And he walks away alive.

There are other exciting demonstrations in "Facts of Faith." Dr. Moon fries an egg on a cold stove, breathes in a lungful of helium which changes his voice, floats metal rings in the air, breaks a drinking glass with a beam of sound, and captures the sound made by a piece of metal when a magnet is brought near.

Of course it's lots of fun to see these facts of science performed, but Dr. Moon does not do it just for fun. The more man learns in the field of science, he says, the more convinced is he that there is a creative Being who has the universe under control.

It is only when men surrender themselves to God they find themselves—and reality.

Surprise Party Off

MEMBERS of four congregations in the Pleasant Valley section got a real surprise last night. For the past three weeks the churchgoers had been planning a big surprise party for their minister, Rev. John Bergstresser, who is being transferred to a new parish.

It was supposed to take place Monday, June 25. That's tonight. Last night the planners found out that Rev. Bergstresser wasn't going to be in the county today.

Result: No surprise tonight. Party's been postponed to Monday, July 2.

No surprise, then, either.

Tamiment Festival Reaches End

THE 1954 TAMIMENT chamber music festival was brought to a close yesterday morning.

The final concert struck a balance between the modernist and the classical approach to chamber music. Works by Claude Debussy and Franz Schubert were heard. Members of the Curtis String Quartet were heard in Debussy's Quartet in G minor, Opus 10 and Schubert's String Quintet in C Major, Opus 163. In the latter selection they were joined by Samuel Mayes, cellist.

Highlight

Highlight of the four-day festival came Friday night with the world premier performance of a work for string quartet by Milan Kadaravek, winner of the $1,000 Tamiment chamber music composition award this year.

Saturday's program included performances of Mozart's Piano Quartet in G minor with Vladimir Sokoloff; Beethoven's String Quartet in C Major; Gluck's "Iphigenie en Aulide" overture; Concerto for oboe and strings in C minor by Benedetto Marcello; Mozart's Divertimento in G Major; Metamorphosen by Richard Strauss and Leo Weiner's Divertimento on Old Hungarian Themes. The New Chamber Orchestra of Philadelphia was heard in Saturday night's concert with the Curtis Quartet.

Three Hurt In Wreck

MILFORD — Three Philadelphia residents were injured — one hospitalized — last night when their car went out of control and struck a tree on the Indian Ladder Rd. near Dingman's Ferry. The vehicle was demolished.

State Police said Anna Lenaski complained of abdominal injuries and was admitted to St. Francis Hospital, Port Jervis. Two other passengers, John Ruffing, 59, and Frank Gibson, 36, were injured but not hospitalized.

Shock

Troopers said the driver, Sonia Helfitz, also of Philadelphia, only suffered shock.

Ruffing suffered possible rib fractures and a laceration of the right ear, while Gibson received abrasions of both shins, troopers said.

into use for the camps in an emergency. He also reported the State Police teletype system, which has a direct link to the Stroudsburg sub-station, is available to the camps.

The value of good publicity in the successful operation of the camps was emphasized by John F. Hill, editor of The Daily Record. He recalled that the camps were the victims of poor public relations during the flood, chiefly through no fault of their own, and offered The Daily Record's facilities to keep the news reports in proper perspective should another disaster strike. This could be done, he said, through the paper's contacts with the three wire services, but only if it had the full cooperation of the camps.

Chester S. Miller, manager of Radio Station WVPO, said the station remains on the air on a 24-hour basis in the event of disaster such as a flood. Since signals can be received on automobile and portable radios even when other electric power is interrupted, Miller advised each camp to have a portable radio on hand at all times. He also offered the station's facilities in relaying correct information to the public.

Meeting Of Camp Representatives Advances Program Of Cooperation

In some respects, Monroe County is a better place in which to live because of events or achievements resulting from last August's flood.

Many of the accomplishments are in the nature of something concrete; others are in the abstract. Some might even be described as broad enough to have brought about good in both ways.

We left Saturday's meeting of 25 camp representatives at the YMCA with the strong impression that what had transpired there will mean much to the camps and the community in a concrete as well as abstract manner.

The camp directors have long felt the need to get together for a discussion of matters of a common interest. They never did, however, perhaps because no occasion that would provide the necessary spark to touch off such a gathering ever presented itself.

None, that is, until last August's flood showed the camps that some cooperative program was essential to maintain their high standards of operation. This cooperation, events showed plainly, must extend to all the camps, one to another, and also to each community in the Pocono Mountains.

The problems which camps meet day to day are not exactly the same as businesses, utilities and industries must face. All camps, regardless of their location, deal with human beings, notably youngsters away from home, so they must maintain a continuous vigilance against accidents, epidemics, fires, disasters, in fact any type of tragedy involving human life.

Safeguards must be geared to emergencies affecting only one individual or camp. But that is not enough. Protection must be afforded against disasters which might hit a majority or all of the 57 camps operating in this area.

It was against this background that camp representatives met here Saturday. Enthusiasm marked the afternoon and evening sessions. The campers asked dozens of pertinent questions as they went about the commendable job of working out a system of cooperation among themselves with the aid of community agencies.

Faced with the same common problems and the facilities to cope with most emergencies, the camps laid the groundwork for coordinating their efforts in time of stress and received the assurance of close liaison with such community groups as Civil Defense, Red Cross, State Police, Radio Station WVPO and The Daily Record.

No one expects a miracle to come about as a result of the meeting. And everybody is prayerfully hopeful that the camps will never come up against an emergency which will call for a mobilization of disaster resources. But if that time ever comes, we are certain the camps and the community will be in a better position to meet the situation head-on because of Saturday's discussions.

All Politicians Should Learn That Some Things Are Better Left Unsaid

Secretary Wilson has an extraordinary gift for tossing out memorable phrases. It is not always an asset in politics.

Like many another statesman, he has found that memorable phrases tossed out at random have a way of bouncing crooked. Some are mis-remembered or mis-quoted, like his famous observation that "what is good for the country is good for General Motors, and vice versa." Some are given meanings wider than intended, like a certain remark about kennel dogs.

Other men in high places have lived to wish they had never coined such apt phrases as "massive retaliation" and "agonizing reappraisal," or "I like old Joe."

But Secretary Wilson has finally produced a phrase that deserves to be remembered, and posted in every statesman's office, including his own.

On a press conference Thursday he referred to the effort to give an extra billion dollars to the Air Force as a "phony," and then, when asked to explain his view, quickly added:

"Well, maybe I shouldn't have said it . . . There is real wisdom in that. It would look well on every desk in Washington.

It might look even better if it were altered just slightly, to read: "Maybe I shouldn't say it . . . so I won't."

(From Philadelphia Bulletin)

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Ouster Of Sharett Could Mean Change In Israel's Attitude Toward United States

From 70 A.D. until 1897, Palestine was accepted by Jews as their lost homeland. When they prayed, they turned toward Palestine, so that their face, symbolically, looked toward Jerusalem. During the last decades of the Nineteenth Century, a small number of European Jews went to Palestine as colonists to work the land, to grow oranges and olives and grapes. They either came to the colonies founded by the Chovevei Zion or those founded by Baron de Rothschild. Other Jews migrated to Jerusalem to weep at the Wailing Wall and to die and to be buried in sacred soil.

Then appeared Theodor Herzl, a Viennese journalist who had attended the Dreyfus Trial in Paris. Herzl was not a traditionally religious Jew; his outlook was political rather than emotional. He wrote a book entitled "The Jewish State." Herzl was a product of the intense nationalistic movements which flourished throughout Europe from about 1848 to World War I. He applied the concept of nationalism to the European Jewish problem which was at that time essentially religious.

At any rate, when in 1897, he called a Congress of Jews in Basel, Switzerland, to found the Zionist movement with the object of establishing a Jewish state in Palestine, the response was favorable. A large and important delegation attended the Basel Congress from the United States.

Palestine was then Turkish territory which it remained until after World War I when it became a ward of the League of Nations and was mandated to Great Britain. By this time, the leader of the Zionist movement was a British chemist, Chaim Weizmann, who had invented TNT and given it to the Allies without personal compensation, asking only that Palestine be acknowledged as a Jewish homeland. As a result, the Balfour Declaration was issued by Great Britain in 1917 recognizing Palestine as a Jewish homeland and the Arabs who dwell there.

Out of these beginnings came Israel, a state recognized by the United Nations in 1949. Weizmann was the first President of Israel and David Ben-Gurion, head of the Histadruth, a labor organization, became its Prime Minister.

Israel faced many problems, the most trying of which is undoubtedly that in the long period from 70 A.D. to 1948, the people whom Abraham moved into the land of Canaan from Ur of Chaldees, proliferated, settled in many countries and became different not only culturally but physically. The Jews from Nazi Germany who took refuge in Israel were very different physically and culturally from those who came from Yemen or Morocco or the Falashas from Africa or the Bnai Israel from the Malabar coast of India. Nevertheless, all these peoples and those from Russia, Poland, Galicia, Rumania and anywhere else are Jews.

Also, religiously, many changes have occurred. Even here in the United States there are four sects of Jews, Hassidim, Orthodox, Conservative and Reformed and there are Jews who do not have any religious affiliations. This is complicated manifold in Israel where, for instance, the Sephardim look down their noses at the Ashkenazim, the difference essentially being between those who migrated to Mediterranean countries and particularly Spain and those who moved into Eastern Europe probably through Germany into Poland and fanning out from there.

So Ben-Gurion, as Prime Minister, has not had an easy time, especially as he has always been beset by Arab opposition, arising not only because of the dispossessing of part of the Arab population of Palestine, as is often said, but even more because of a clash of cultures between Asiatic Arabs and European Jews.

Moshe Sharett, as Minister for Foreign Affairs, has generally taken the view that these complex problems will not be solved by war but by time. Ben-Gurion has been less patient. This has been complicated by the intervention of Soviet Russia in the Near Eastern situation. Soviet Russia supports the Arabs, using Nasser of Egypt as the agent of its policy. The quid pro quo has been the supply of war material and trainers and experts to Egypt. In return, Nasser has conducted a vast and bitter anti-American and anti-British propaganda throughout the Arab world.

Moshe Sharett, Minister for Foreign Affairs, has been embarrassed by the American policy of selling arms to Saudi Arabia and refusing to sell to Israel. Ben-Gurion has let Sharett go. This can mean a reorientation of attitude toward the United States.

iron furniture and superfluous haymakers are shown as "cricket." And a revolver, sawed-off shotgun and running broad jump onto the prostrate loser are depicted to the boys and girls as all within the code of clean sportsmanship. How can a midget grow up with any feeling that he doesn't want to hurt anybody? On the movie or TV screen today a director would portray Lochinvar using a heavily-shod dray horse to jump on his opponent's chest, and all King Arthur's Knights of the Round Table pulling the table apart for weapons to beat adversaries to a pulp. Few producers would hesitate to show David, following up his slingshot attack on Goliath, by kicking him in the face, stomping on his head and doing a dance on his prostrate body as an encore. Flippant Commuters Try Executive Humor

FOR YEARS NOW I have noted the general mirthlessness of men in high places. What may be hilariously funny to the help is without humor for the top echelon. The ludicrous always strikes them as lugubrious. "What's the joke, fellows? Run it by again. How's that now?"

The latest instance of the dead pan dolefulness greeted me the other day, to wit: Four homeward bound commuters on a railroad were delayed over an hour on a very short run. They billed the railroad's president and general manager for $3.68—four sandwiches, 8 beers, and one telephone call. The latter calculated to allow wifely anger, we imagine.

"This amount, we feel, should be rightfully charged to the railroad," their letter stated. "Please note that no charge is preferred for the following: Overtime, $40. Anxiety and suspense, $10,000. Aggravation of ulcers, $5,000. Strain to heart and lungs due to running to and from sandwich store, $5,000. Cost of cleaning four suits (they spilled the beer) $6. General disgust, $10,000. Ruined meals at home, $40. Losses incurred in prolonged card game, $155."

Now who will deny that this letter contains all the elements of comedy? I'll tell you who—the RR prexy. I can see those hasty commuters, those vice presidents summoned from golf tournaments, sunlit spots and other scenes recognized as legitimate for the transaction of business.

What to do? Here we have four dissatisfied customers yelling for redress ($3.68). A nagging sum to be sure, but they hint at further claims ($30,087.55). Get the lawyers to frame a cautious reply. Give 'em an inch and who knows what brazen demands might be visited on RR heads by other late commuters with a taste for ham on rye, malt vinegars and irate wives to be placated? Pay 'em, and the next thing we know some passenger of a sprinter bent will be ordering breast of chicken and martinis.

"I feel," wrote the railway official, "that it was with tongue in cheek that you asked us to reimburse you for the $3.68. If you owned an automobile I imagine you sometimes would have a flat tire, but I doubt very much you would send your car dealer a bill for the food and drink or for the energy and temper expended in changing the tire." You do, eh? You got one more think long over due. And a lot of laughs.

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

JACK CARSON tells about a business man who leaned out of his car and called to a very pretty girl on the curb, "Pardon me, Miss, but . . ." The damsel cut him short with, "No, my dear man, you never met me before. I am neither waiting for a bus nor am I going your way. I am not lonely. I do not care to see the countryside, and I've already eaten dinner. Furthermore, my fiancé weighs 220, is a boxing pro, and is meeting me here very soon. Now, were you going to say something?"

"Yes, indeed," spluttered the business man. "You're losing your skirt."

Jackie Gleason, who likes to do things in a big way, has a motto on his wall to remind him that time is fleeting, and that no matter how much he's got, he must always strive for more. The motto: "Three elephants are better than one."

U. S. To Try New Approach To East-West Disarmament

WASHINGTON, June 24—The U. S. has a new formula for coping with that key obstacle which has long blocked an East-West disarmament agreement—an effective method of enforcing it.

This proposal is not a solution in itself. It is a new approach to seeking an answer to this crucial obstacle.

Primary aim of this new effort is overcoming Russia's persistent opposition to foreign scrutiny of its vast military system and armaments—such as President Eisenhower's famous "open skies" inspection plan. By eliminating this Soviet barrier, it is believed the way can be cleared to work out a worthwhile disarmament accord.

As projected by Harold Stassen, White House assistant for disarmament, this new concept is as follows:

Russia and the Western powers to set up special military missions which would exchange visits for two basic purposes: (1) To establish friendly professional and personal ties; (2) to discuss and formulate ways and means of dealing with the technical problems involved in effective enforcement of disarmament.

These special missions would number anywhere from 25 to 75 officials, and would include atomic experts.

A Western mission, from the U. S., Britain, France, Canada and one or several other allies, would go to Russia for a full exchange of views and visits to major ground, air and naval installations. A Soviet mission would make similar trips to those countries.

Stassen's ingenious idea is still in a formative stage. It has yet to be put into concrete form. That is now in process, for formal submission later this summer to both the allies and Moscow.

But it is highly significant that the initial response to Stassen's formula has been favorable on all sides.

Both the State Department and Joint Chiefs of Staff like it. Britain, France and Canada are also approving. They have expressed willingness to join the U. S. in the formal proposal to Russia.

And Soviet reaction has been encouraging. The Reds know about the idea, as Stassen discussed it in London with Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. He evinced keen interest, and gave earnest assurances the matter would be carefully considered by his government.

A few weeks later, the Russians suddenly invited Western Air commanders to attend the aviation show taking place in Moscow this week. General Nathan Twining and a group of other Air Force leaders are there.

State Department and Pentagon authorities believe this development is directly due to Stassen's proposal.

Note: A return visit by high Russian officers is certain. General Twining took with him formal invitations to Marshal Vasily Sokolovsky, head of the General Staff, and Marshal P. F. Zhigalov, commander of the Red Air Force. They will be asked to attend the National Air Show in Oklahoma City, starting Labor Day.

CONGRESSIONAL FLASHES—The Senate has voted its Chaplain a $1,900 raise. This brings his salary up to $5,000, which is still $2,000 under the $7,000 the House pays its chaplain. The senators also voted a few boosts to themselves, that will come in mighty handy this election year. They raised their air and special delivery mail allowance from $300 to $400 a year; increased their number of long-distance calls from 1,080 to 1,440; hiked to $1,200 the amount they can spend for office rent back home; authorized the employment of an additional staff member at $13,677; and increased their yearly telegraph total to 20,000 words. They also voted to 2,000 words. They also voted $50,000 to redecorate Senate dining rooms. House Appropriations Committee members were peeved at these hikes, but they got nowhere in doing anything about them. The Senate flatly refused to hold a conference on the issue, and the House backed down. . . . Backers of the long-pending legislation to return alien Germany and Japanese property seized during the war have given up hope of getting anywhere in this Congress. The issue is loaded with political dynamite, with the result that the measure is still stalled in committee. Its advocates want the State Department to urge congressional action, but Secretary Dulles is keeping strict hands off.

On Broadway

—by Walter Winchell

Broadway Cinderellas—The oldest story—sudden transformation from oblivion to fame—is constantly enchanting. Such a phenomenon is rare and impressive, of course. It is personified by Roberta Sherwood's stately splendor at the Copa after many years among the honky-tonk k's.

It is Julie Ann, the sparkling sorcery in "My Fair Lady." It is 18-year-old Susan Strasberg's radiant poignancy in "The Diary of Ann Frank" which elevated her to stardom. . . . The foregoing represent the drama of aspirations, the reality of dreams, the miracle of talent. The magical process, however, requires diligence and intelligence as well as skill and good fortune. Clearly, pumpkin coaches and glass slippers are made of stardust.

Susan Strasberg was a rather reluctant Cinderella. Fearful of being rejected, Susan originally refused to audition. The producer coaxed the frightened youngster for 3 hours before she agreed to read. Finally, drenched in her own tears, Susan read the final touching episode of the drama. Within a few moments she won the role.

Then there is Nanette Fabray—full of laughter and music—enlivening the merry goings on Caesar & Co. Nanette is undoubtedly the most inspiring Cindy. She came out of the shadows into the light. . . .

Just Between Us

—by Bobby Westbrook

Convince a fool against his will, he's of the same opinion still, and the same holds true for housewives with an over-sentimental attachment to things.

I freely admit that a set of Books of Knowledge, circa 1920, battered by two generations of seekers after truth—and rainy day amusement—don't enhance the decor. I'll also admit that no child, his face alight with interest, has come clamoring to know "How does a snake hear with no ears?" or similar questions which this set would enable me to answer—not in the last five years, anyway.

As a matter of fact, finding anything in this particular set would be difficult for anybody except a Roman still familiar with Roman numerals. Where the backs aren't missing altogether, the gold numerals have worn off, and you have to look through some 20 books to find the index and then on the inside again to find Volume 18 or XIX or is it XXII?

Moreover, most of the color plates, illustrating things, have somehow vanished over the years, as well as whole hunks of the books themselves. And besides that, the world has added considerable to the sum of its knowledge since those days.

Step by step, I'll follow your logic, agreeing wholeheartedly all along the line, up until the time you suggest that I get rid of them—or at least banish them to the attic—and then I balk. No, I can't prove I've looked at them in the last six months—even the past year. But now that you've challenged them, I bet I will. Anybody for finding out why ostriches bury their heads?

Pocono Gardners Visit Rose Gardens In Hershey Trip

TANNERSVILLE — The recent excursion of 26 members and friends of the Pocono Garden Club to Hershey was made in good weather under happy conditions. Before visiting the rose gardens at Hershey, the group toured the chocolate plant.

After a lunch at the cafeteria in Hershey, the rose gardens were visited. There the roses were at the height of their bloom. The party left at 3 o'clock in order to visit the Miniature Village en route home. Every part of the village is handmade and the lighted scene at the end of that tour, with the Statue of Liberty in the background, a flag constantly waving in front of same, and religious pictures thrown against the background while a recording by Kate Smith of "God Bless America" was played, put the final effective touch to a wonderful trip. The group stopped for dinner at Walp's in Allentown and arrived home in Tannersville at 8:30.

The Wyckoff trip to Colorado was reported, and 10 other trips during the past month were announced, one to the Wild Animal Farm, four to Land of Make Believe, one to Harrisburg, one to Philadelphia, and two picnics. The council also reported that 30 gifts had been received for local Scouts from Japan. Each intermediate and senior troop is to receive one of the gifts, and a members will be selected to write to the Japanese Girl thus inaugurating a friendship pen pal project.

Touring Scouts Reach Ranch In Colorado

(Special to the Daily Record from Scouts on Tour)

Neversummer Ranch, Colo., June 19 — We spent the night at the First Methodist Church in Greeley, Colo., and had breakfast at Sam's Steak House there. Some of us tried a new dish that Marge (Wakfield) found in a magazine: ice cream and cereal. Since there were no ill effects, we will try it again soon.

About 10:30 we stopped in Loveland to have the bus greased. During this time Rev. C. C. Levergood had his watch fixed while the rest of us explored the town.

We had a picnic lunch right side of the Rocky Mountain National Park. We continued up the mountain with all of us enjoying the beautiful views. Here in the Rocky Mountains of Colorado, we not only found snow but breath-taking scenery that one can only find in Colorado. After taking in the magnificence of these mountains, we arrived at the ranch.

We immediately fell in love with the horses and everyone is excited about the pack trip. We spent the remainder of the day getting settled. After dinner, we had a demonstration of horsemanship and ropemanship by the wranglers, which was followed by devotions around the campfire.

We all were very glad to see the beds after a very busy day. (Signed), Jane Durn.

Our cosmetic department has EVERYTHING . . . but only limited room to display it. So, if you fail to see at a glance whatever it is you require, be sure to ask. I do know that we have a complete line of suntan oils, including Skol, Sea 'n Ski, Bronze Tan, and others equally popular . . . and our Revlon fans will be happy to know that we now carry a complete Revlon line.

"How complete is the Revlon line?" you may ask, as I did. Well, it's certainly too complete to be detailed in one column, for it consists of everything for the hair, the complexion, and the hands. One bottle labeled "Moon Drops" caught my eye and Pearl Walter explained that it's a wonderfully efficient skin moisture. She rubbed a bit on the back of my hand, and I know what she means . . . it softens on touch, gives the skin a pearly appearance, and has a refreshing fragrance. If your skin is too dry and leathery, this would obviously be a perfect antidote.

Mothers of small children will be happy to know about Satin Set, the Revlon pin curl lotion for that very fine hair which is so troublesome year round, and particularly in summer. Another newcomer to the Revlon line is "Snow Peach" . . . a vibrant, coral-pink shade that is cool and frostily opalescent; the lipstick excitingly different.

Fluffy Swansdown powder puffs are another elegant accessory to be found in our cosmetic department. These come in varied sizes and depths, and prices range from 30c to 1.00. A swansdown puff, besides being heavenly soft, is washable and long wearing. Much more practical really than the cheaper velours.

If you are looking for a cosmetic gift, we would like to remind you of the Jewel-line Revlon Futurama lipstick cases in smart jeweler's metals . . . ranging in price from 1.25 to 13.25. Any Revlon lipstick can be slipped into the case in a twinkling, and the case itself will be a lifelong treasure. I understand some of our recent brides have selected these lovely accessories as gifts for their bridesmaids, and this seems to be one of the happiest, most original gifts they could have chosen.

So much for cosmetics, except to say that "Christmas in July" is making its second annual appearance here. There are both powders, colognes, and cream colognes in a fragrance combining all the cool, dazzling beauty of Christmas and the airiness of summer. It is designed to refresh and invigorate . . . and to captivate anyone within sniffing distance. Christmas in July . . . leicles on a palm tree . . . silver snowflakes on the red rose bushes . . . mistletoe mixed with white orchids in a summer bridal bouquet . . . woolen parkas over a latex bathing suit . . . plum pudding, blazing in brandy, served with tall, frosted glasses of lemonade with mint. Interesting combinations. Something to concentrate upon while you relax in a hammock with your parchment fan and fly swatter.

Treatment Saves Metal Surfaces

HERE'S the modern, practical way to save even badly rusted metal surfaces—a way that usually eliminates sandblasting, chemical pre-cleaning, and other costly surface preparations.

Simply scrape and wirebrush to remove rust scale and loose rust—then brush Rust-Oleum 769 Damp-Proof Red Primer right over the remaining rust.

Easy as that to cut maintenance costs, and save even badly rusted metal—because Rust-Oleum's specially-processed fish oil base penetrates rust to bare metal incorporating the rust particles into the coating.

You beautify as you protect, because Rust-Oleum is available in practically all colors, including aluminum and white. It dries free of objectionable odor to a firm, decorative coating that resists salt water, salt air, sun, fumes, heat, and many other rust-producing conditions.

But—you have to try it yourself to "get the feel" of Rust-Oleum; see how easy it is to use—its self-leveling—leaves no brushmarks; to see how many ways it can save you money on gutters, pipes, machinery, equipment, trucks, beams, metal sash, wire fences, stacks, girders, etc. Try it on your rust problem. It says more than a thousand words.

Rust-Oleum is available in this area at the Pocono Paint-Up Center, 722 Main St., Stroudsburg.

Neutralize Lime In Plaster

IF YOU wish to paint new plaster with an oil base paint, neutralize the lime in the plaster by applying a solution made by dissolving two pounds of zinc sulphate crystals in one gallon of water.

Brush this over the wall and allow it to dry. Remove the crystals before painting.

RUST-OLEUM, THE PAINT THAT STOPS RUST and helps to stretch maintenance budgets. Because of the fact Rust-Oleum penetrates rust to bare metal and coats it with a pliable, low-surface-tension film, you can apply it directly over sound rusted surfaces. ## Wyckoff Store Conducting June Jumbo Value Sale

By Cora Albertson
One of the "Ringmasters" in Wyckoff's current June Jumbo Value Sale

YOU'VE probably seen more pictures of elephants around town lately than you saw during the last election.

You'll see many more again this week. No... there's no political connection. The smiling "Jumbo" balanced precariously atop a large striped ball is the theme this year for Wyckoff's "June Jumbo Value Sale."

What does all this mean to you, the customer? Wonderful, "Jumbo Values" in every Wyckoff department at "peanut prices!"

The whole store is brimming with gay, circus atmosphere. We even have the traditional "three rings." Each "ring" composes a number of departments within the store; each also has its own "ringmaster" and is in competition with the others to capture "top performing ring prizes" which are being offered to sales people during this sale.

Other "ringmasters" during the Jumbo sale are Laura Fabel and Doug Gordon.

If you haven't taken advantage of the "peanut prices" being offered during this sale, you still have time; the sale continues through this Saturday.

And by the way: you don't have to worry about the hot weather when you shop at Wyckoff's... it's comfortably air conditioned by Frigidaire!

New Antenna Fully Backed

"IT'S REALLY amazing," says William Queenan, owner of Queenan's Radio & Television Service, 750 Main St.

"The JFD Star-Helix TV antenna gets brilliant pictures where other antennas have failed in this area. 'We have installed many different kinds of antennas here in our Monroe County area, but we find that in 'pulling' the signal in from 90 to 100 miles away, nothing beats the JFD Star-Helix antenna,' Mr. Queenan emphasized.

"The reason no other antenna can do this is because only the JFD Star-Helix has microwave helical design... the most sensitive design known to modern electronics.

"It works like a giant telescope to wipe out the miles and inter-

Communism To Avoid War Risk

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

RECENT developments tend to confirm an impression that world communism will avoid the risks of a global war for at least 10 years and devote this time to strengthening economies and military capabilities.

New evidence of this is contained in the decisions of Communist Czechoslovakia's national party conference, just concluded in Prague.

Decisions of this conference show that the Soviet Union is engaged in a program to dovetail the economies of all the satellite European countries with that of the U.S.S.R. to provide maximum production efficiency from the entire bloc.

Soviet Program

Soviet economic and industrial leaders have made it plain that the U.S.S.R. is engaged in a 10-15 year program to mend the many weaknesses of the Soviet economic structure. This program was reaffirmed at the 20th Soviet Communist Congress, whose basic theme was a determination to overtake the West and surpass it in economic potential. This will require a degree of decentralization of authority in the U.S.S.R. to eliminate some of the monumental obstacles in the way of Soviet progress—obstacles thrown up by the vast Stalin bureaucracy.

Satellite countries will now do likewise, just as they will follow the Soviet lead in all other fields. The Czechoslovak national Communist conference expressed determination to decentralize the administration and planning of the economy and "develop the initiative of the workers." A resolution stated:

"Economic development plans covering 10 to 15 years and coordinated with the plans of other countries of the Socialist camp must be drawn up... Long-term plans for individual sectors must be initiated for better exploitation of existing natural and economic conditions."

economic war as a prelude to the political struggle against the free way of life. But the military backdrop is not overlooked. The Czechoslovak resolutions stipulate that the state and party must continue "strengthening the defense capability of the republic." The armed forces, it says "must be well-equipped and well-prepared both militarily and politically."

The conference resolutions indicate the Soviet Union and its European partners are going to channel all their major efforts into building a machine which not only can compete with the West, but eventually can outstrip the West in the ability to export, particularly to underdeveloped countries.

Tannersville Pins 1st Setback On Strouds In PML Play

Saylorsburg Mars Lake Harmony Chance To Tie For Lead; West End Records 1st

TANNERSVILLE threw the Pocomo Mountain League race into a tight affair yesterday by handing first place Strouds its initial setback of the season via a 4-3 10-inning decision at Reeder's.

In other games, Lake Harmony failed to gain a tie for the lead as Saylorsburg hammered the second place 11-1 at Lake Harmony; West End A. C. broke into the win column for the first time by outlasting Barrett 12-7; Bushkill topped Kunkletown 13-12 in 10 frames; and Anabonik defeated Reeder's 8-6 at Gordon Giffels Field.

Seip Mound Victor

REIDERS—Bob Seip scattered nine hits in pinning the first loss in nine league contests on the Strouds. The Tannersville left-hander outlasted Harold Jacobson and Bill Sommers, pinning the loss on the latter.

The winning run was scored in the 10th when Karl Weingartner tripled to deep center and scored a moment later when "Otty" Pechatka skied to center, admitting Weingartner.

It was the fourth triumph in nine games for Tannersville.

Pace Attack

Jim Werkheiser and Weingartner led the winners attack with three hits each, including a triple by Karl and a double by Jim. Paul (Doc) Lim was the big gun for the Strouds, stroking out three singles.

Seip hurled a masterful game, striking out six and walking two. He was especially tough in the clutches holding the Strouds' power hitters Danny Eppley, Randy Morris hitless in 10 trips to the plate.

Drops To Fifth

STROUDSBURG—Anabonik knocked Reeder's out the first division by recording its third win here at Gordon Giffels Field.

Jim Correll went all the way to gain the hill triumph, outpitching George Woodling and George Hartshorn as the latter was tabbed with the setback.

Shook 5-for-5

Red Shook's five-for-five spearheaded a 13-hit Anabonik offense. He also contributed a triple to the winners cause.

The win moved Anabonik into eighth position, ahead of Barrett and West End.

Strunk also led his mates at bat, garnering four-for-five, including a double.

17-Hit Attack

Lake Harmony—Bob Bonsor was the thorn in Lake Harmony's side as he pitched Saylorsburg to victory here.

Bonsor allowed only five hits and hurled Saylorsburg into fourth place in the standings. The loss kept Lake Harmony one game off the pace of the Strouds.

A seven-run first inning shot Saylorsburg out in front and the Lakers stayed that way the rest of the way. Lou Hill and Bob Arner shared the mound chores for the losers with the former taking the defeat.

Rains Help Buccos End Losing Streak

PITTSBURGH, June 24 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates needed—and got—an assist from the weatherman today to break their losing streak at eight games in a row by topping the Chicago Cubs 1-0 in a game called in account of rain.

The rains came with two out in the Cub half of the sixth inning in the second game of a doubleheader. The Cubs had won the opener 5-3 before 17,066.

The rains came just in time. The Cubs had two on, with two out, and Eddie Miksis due to bat.

A few moments earlier, Forrest (Spook) Jacobs had crashed his first hit as a Pirate, a single to center, to score Eddie O'Brien with the run that meant victory.

Cub veteran Bob Rush and rookie Vito Valentini had combined their pitching efforts to win the opener.

Braves Run Streak To 10 In Twin Win

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—The high-flying Milwaukee Braves, getting superb pitching from right-handers Lew Burdette and Gene Conley, gobbled up both ends of their doubleheader with the hapless New York Giants today, 6-2 and 7-1, to stretch their winning streak to 10 straight and increase their first-place margin to two games.

Burdette handcuffed the Giants with four hits in the opener as he chalked up his seventh victory against three defeats. Conley, apparently completely recovered from his sore arm condition, yielded only four of the Giants' seven hits before retiring in favor of Dave Jolly with one out in the seventh inning of the nightcap.</

By Bob Clark

SMASH, a new athletic combination of handball, squash and tennis made its official debut at Walt Fossa's Pocono Mountain Inn, near Cresco, yesterday.

The sport which is now running in full steam on a nation-wide basis, actually got its start in 1932 when George Forsythe, of San Mateo, Calif., put together a few boards in a series of angles to create the idea.

The game is a rarity in that the sport can be played alone, singles, doubles and partners.

Scoring is similar to table tennis with each game at 21 or 15 points, with the match being two games out of three.

The game at first appears to be a ping pong table chopped up in sections, with a small court laid out behind it. The equipment used is a special bat with a blade slightly larger and a handle slightly longer than that used for regular table tennis. Space required is 6½ foot high, 12 feet wide and 20 feet in length. Height is not important since the ball, upon its return, always slants downward.

Fossa, the father of the game in the east, has the best in the United States working out or playing matches at his PMI in the Sky. Yesterday, champions from the Midwest—Elyn Sistrunk and Henry Sistrunk—gave exhibitions at the Cresco retreat.

The sport is becoming so widely known that Sports Illustrated and World Tennis magazines are doing special feature layouts on the game from Fossa's resort.

It also has embedded itself deeply into the hearts of tennis-loving Australia. From the far reaches of Townsville to the western shores of Perth, the Aussies have taken the sport quite seriously.

Fossa, no novice at the sport himself labels the game as one requiring fast foot work, split-second timing and sweeping strokes.

Young Men Christian Association and Boys Clubs throughout America have sanctioned the game for play under their roofs.

It more or less has the slogan of "everybody's playing it, playing it." And by the list of clubs, organizations and groups who are already ignited with the "Smash" spark, Fossa probably has something at PMI in the Sky that's not just a star that goes away at dawn.

QUICK PICKUPS—The Petersburg Blue Devils, victims of the Strouds in an exhibition game at Scranton Friday night, are seeking more games with teams in the Pocono Mountain Association. Area clubs wishing further information are urged to contact Joe Wirth, manager of the Petersburg Baseball Club, Scranton, Penna.

The hushed-up firing of a basketball coach in the Lehigh-Northampton League is creating quite a stir in the Lehigh Valley. The coach, considered one of the better molders of quints, is planning to fight the ouster to the end, using his teachers tenure ruling as ammunition. The "let go" court mentor is a former graduate of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Answer to JT, Bangor—Ted Kluszewski, the Cincinnati Redlegs' powerful first baseman, played football at Indiana University and was a teammate of Pete Pihos when the recently retired Philadelphia Eagles' star end was a bone-crushing fullback for the Hoosiers during the World War II years.

Babe Ruth Tilt At Giffels Today

FACESETTING Ronson's will put its two-game streak on the mark today when they stack up against International Boiler Works in a Babe Ruth League game at Gordon Giffels Field, starting at 6:30 p. m.

Filly Stakes Top Card

Runoffs Set To Open Today In Softball

THE MONROE County Softball Tournament will get under way today at the Stroudsburg High Playground Field, starting at 6 p. m. Softball commissioner Forrest Fabel, director of the runoffs, announced last night that five teams will vie for honors in the tournament.

In Openers
Slated to meet in the opener at 6 p. m. today are Tucker's Chevrolet and Gray's Chevrolet. In the nightcap, which will start approximately at 7:15 p. m., Nebel's Market will play Lanterman's Funeral Home.

The other team, Tobyhanna Depot, drew a bye for the first round of the double-elimination event.

Tuesday Card
Tuesday's schedule will bring together at 6 p. m. Tobyhanna and the winner of the Tucker-Gray contest, while the nightcap will feature the loser of the Gray-Tucker tilt and the loser of the Nebel-Lanterman game.

The purpose of the tournament is to get a champion to pit against another district victor with the winner having the right to participate in the Keystone Amateur Softball Association's Class A State championships here the first week in August.

MSCL Entrants
All teams entered in this week's county playoffs are members of the Monroe County Softball League. The Lanterman-sponsored team is the IAM club of the MSCL.

Roseto Pins 1st Loss On Pen Argyl A's

ROSETO—Roseto handed Pen Argyl A's its first setback in the State Belt Babe Ruth League via a 5-3 8-4 triumph here Saturday.

The victory was the fourth in 10 outings for Roseto.

Sylvester Wins
Joe Sylvester limited the A's to six hits to gain the mound win.

Dennis Voorhees, the first of two Pen Argyl pitchers, was the loser. Jim Caprosso mopped up for the A's but the damage had been done.

Weitzel Choice In Hershey Golf

HERSHEY—Johnny Weitzel, of Hershey Country Club, the defending titlist, is a sentimental favorite to retain the championship when most of the state's pros, plus a handful of out-of-state performers, compete in the 40th annual Pennsylvania Open Golf Tournament over the courses of the Hershey Country Club and Hershey Park Golf Club today (Monday).

Weitzel's principal competition is expected from Lew Worsham, of Oakmont, Pittsburgh, former National Open champion; George Fazio, Philadelphia area shot-maker; Jim Turnesa, of New York; and Henry Williams Jr., of Berkeleigh Country Club, Kutztown, the 1955 champion.

Program On TV Fight Front

By JACK HAND
The Associated Press
FLYWEIGHT champion Pascual Perez of Argentina and bantamweight king Robert Cohen of France defend their crowns this week in Uruguay and Italy.

Perez meets Oscar Suarez of Havana at Montevideo, Uruguay, Saturday, the first championship fight ever held in that city. If Perez wins, he must defend against Mexico's Memo Diaz by Sept. 30 or forfeit his title under a ruling of the National Boxing Assn.

Cohen risks his championship against Mario D'Agata, Italy's dead mute puncher Friday at Rome where promoters expect a crowd of 20,000 for the city's first world title scrap since the days of Primo Carnera and Paulino Uzcudun in 1933.

In the United States, within reach of the television cameras, the usual "studio" programs will be held.

Costa To Fight
Carmelo Costa, fourth-ranked featherweight contender, takes on Ike Chestnut Wednesday at Washington's Uline Stadium. It will be the first away-from-home start for Costa, a 22-year-old Brooklyn boy.

Twin City TV Sweeps Pair From Bangor

TWIN CITY TV swept a double-header from Bangor by scores of 4-3 and 3-0 in exhibition softball games at the Stroudsburg Playground Field yesterday.

Steve Balick hurled one of the victories (4-3), besting R. Everett. Bill Crooks and Lessig led the TV attack with two hits each, including a double by Crooks.

Harris Shutout
In the other game, Red Batton shutout the Slaters on two hits. Felleencer, Lessig and Miller were the big guns with a pair of safeties apiece in the blank job.

Strauser Gains National Recognition

AMERICA IS beginning to "discover" Sterling Strauser. For years one of Monroe County's most popular—and most experimental—artists, Strauser has just "come into his own" in two ways on the national art scene.

In order of their national scope, they are:

Strauser was commissioned by Mademoiselle, a magazine for college girls and young married women, to illustrate a piece of fiction. The story involves a horse. Horses are one of Strauser's most familiar subjects.

He has signed an exclusive contract with the "Little Studio", one of New York's best-known avant garde galleries.

Contract

The contract was good news enough. Last week, Strauser found out that—with a stable of a couple of hundred artists to choose from—his work was one of those to be represented in the Little Studio's annual catalogue. Seven other artists are also represented in the annual.

The story in Mademoiselle appeared in the June issue. Written by Constance Crawford, it concerns a sensitive little horse. Typical of much Mademoiselle fiction, the story has deep insight into character and a goodly share of psychological overtones.

Strauser did three paintings augmenting the story. Two of these are run as side "panels" at the first of the story. The third is a full-page illustration of the climax of the story. All are reproduced in black-and-white.

The commission to do the story illustrations was given to Strauser by Bradley Thompson, art editor at Mademoiselle. The magazine's literary section has been a consistent high winner of prizes for outstanding writing during the past decade.

Italians Seek Shelf

ROME, June 24 (AP)—A bill in the Chamber of Deputies seeks to establish Italian ownership of the continental shelf in the Mediterranean on a contour line drawn at 200 meters depth.

Adjustment

The line would be adjusted where there is a conflict with a neighboring country over an adjacent area.

Israel is believed to be the only Mediterranean country thus far having staked a claim to mineral rights on the continental shelf.

Large Tax Receipts

ROME, June 24 (AP)—The Italian government tobacco monopoly, a major source of revenue, brought tax receipts of 293 billion lire—(469 million dollars) in the 1954-55 fiscal year. Under the monopoly a pack of American cigarettes costs about 60 cents.

More than 400,000 skilled young men under 30 were deferred by the U. S. draft program in World War Two.

Carl Bailey Stationed Near Paris

A/3C CARL T. Bailey is now stationed near Paris, France. In a letter home to his family, Stroudsburg RD 2, Bailey relates that he left the States June 3, arrived in France the following day. It was a one-stop flight, the letter says. The plane landed at Goose Bay, Labrador for refueling.

Excerpts from the letter, provided by the local boy's mother:

"The base where I am stationed is a new one. It's only 19 months old and it's far from being finished. Paris is one of the beauty spots on God's big earth. I have never seen so many bicycles and motorcycles in my life."

Language

The language barrier does little to prevent "conversation", Bailey says: "The French people talk to me and I to them. We look at each other and laugh. I don't understand their language and most of them don't understand English."

The family said last night that Bailey would enjoy hearing from friends. Those who wish to write may do so at the following address: A/3C Carl T. Bailey, AF 13536104, Box 85, 21st FTR, BMR, WG 21st FLD Maint. Sq., APO 247, New York, N. Y.
